

CURIOUS MINDS with SUSAN ALEXJANDER | FRIDAY 25 MARCH

Portals of Sound and Light; Black Holes and Beyond.

What better place than Brody Studios to explore the mysteries of the psyche, through the metaphor of a black hole? You will first be entertained by a sound journey (Portal; Black Holes/White Holes). The cast of characters includes black holes, spinning neutron stars, gravity waves and Earth. What happens when two black holes, orbiting around each other on their long, long journey through deep space, finally merge into that tiny singularity point? What's on the other side of the chaos? ... A quantum world where time stops? ... Does the energy flow into a new dimension? This is the ultimate, cosmic mystery. The soundtrack, an art piece, is derived from scientific data (NASA space sounds, pulsars, 'mapped' binary pair trajectories, etc.), and from sound samples of Earth (whales, dolphins, frequencies of water and elements).

Following the sound journey we will explore some of the fascinating theories and mysteries surrounding this black hole quest - clearly the Holy Grail of physics today, and perhaps our most compelling modern collective myth. One hundred years ago Einstein predicted black holes but thought it unlikely that nature could actually have created them. Now we know they are everywhere...in the earth, the sun, stars, and within every atom. What a fitting metaphor for our time as we transition from a collective 'dark night of the soul' into the light of new understandings. We are searching the skies, but we are really searching ourselves. Prepare for lively discussion.
